THE MACKINTOSH
COLLECTION
Geometry given time

Line, form and perfect balance.

Mackintosh translates a celebrated design language into a bold square clock, defined by geometric chapters, slender lines and balanced space.

The disciplined framework is softened by subtle detailing, creating a piece that feels architectural, decorative and immediately recognisable.

Form and line balanced.

Inspired by the work of Charles Rennie Mackintosh, the design brings elongated geometry, restrained ornament and a sense of proportion.

Precision cut into every line.

The dial is fabricated in metal, with its Roman chapter design accurately cut to create the crisp geometry that makes the design so distinctive.

Traditional workshop skill sits alongside modern manufacturing. Each component is prepared, finished, assembled and tested with the care expected of a limited production piece.

Architectural form. Dependable timekeeping.

An optional acrylic backing allows for LED back illumination, bringing depth to the chapter ring and giving the dial a quieter, more atmospheric presence after dark.

A square with presence.

At 760 × 760 mm, Mackintosh has sufficient presence to define a room while its open linear chapter work retains a sense of visual lightness.

Its disciplined geometry suits contemporary homes, design led hospitality interiors, studios and distinctive commercial settings.

A numbered work.

Every numbered Mackintosh Collection clock is accompanied by a certificate of authenticity and a discreet engraved brass plaque.

Together they record the design, finish, serial or edition number, date of completion and the people responsible for the piece.

The clock is protected in a purpose made foam lined wooden crate, ready for delivery to its new setting.
